Fund Review

China’s economic activities slowed down in July. CPI remained mild, and PPI was flat yoy while up mom. The yoy growth of exports, industrial production, FAI and retail sales all decelerated compared to June. But the official manufacturing PMI rose to 51.7 in August, better than market expectations, suggesting improving supply and demand situation of manufacturing. In the overseas markets, developed countries in general maintained stable economic recovery. The US GDP growth was revised up from initial estimate of 2.6% to 3% in the second quarter. The Euro area (EA19) GDP growth was also revised up to 2.2% in the second quarter, which has been expanding for 17 consecutive quarters. In addition, the first reading of Japan’s GDP growth was 4.0% in the second quarter.

In August, the Hong Kong market shocked up amid favorable interim results of Chinese and US listed companies and the North Korea-US tensions. The paper, IT, insurance, steel and auto market leaders the Fund heavily weighted all reported solid interim results. The Fund bought a quality property developer, as it recorded fast growth of earnings and contract sales in the first half of the year, and its contract sales is expected to improve significantly in the next three years. Moreover, the Fund accumulated a leading smartphone component producer on dips. The company didn’t perform well in the first half mainly due to the increase in impairment of trade receivables, while the company’s revenue and gross margin both maintained yoy growth. We expect the company to resume its high growth momentum in the future thanks to the increasing orders from both Chinese major smartphone makers and the famous foreign brand, and the rising ASP of new products.
